Duration: 6

Fitness: ▲▲▲▲▲ Technique: ▲▲▲▲▲

Price from: 2 025 €

The Aosta Valley, the smallest region of Italy, is located in the northwest of the country and shares borders with France and Switzerland. This predominantly mountainous region is home to majestic peaks, including the highest in the Alps: the Matterhorn (14,692 ft), Monte Rosa (15,200 ft), Gran Paradiso (13,287 ft), and Mont Blanc (15,781 ft). Its exceptional natural environment is a major draw, attracting visitors from around the world thanks to its geographical and cultural richness.

This "light pack" trip offers a unique way to explore the Aosta Valley through a selection of the region's most beautiful hikes, especially in the Mont Avic Natural Park and the preserved Rutor massif. We will also enjoy the warm hospitality of the Valdostani people and the delights of their regional cuisine. Highlights include Fontina, an iconic cheese used in the traditional fondue, and Jambon de Bosses, aged in the heights of the region. These delicacies pair perfectly with local wines like Torrette and Blanc de Morgex and La Salle, grown in Europe's highest vineyards.

Luggage transport is provided for almost the entire route, so you only need to carry what you need for the day. You will stay in small local hotels or refuges with limited room capacity. Transfers are done by private minibus, and daily picnics are organized by the accommodations, providing a convivial break in the heart of nature.

ITINERARY

Day 1

Val d'Ayas

Early departure from Chamonix for a two-hour transfer to Val d'Ayas. Our hike begins above Brusson, a route with stunning views of the low Aosta Valley. After an hour of walking in the forest, we reach the Chamen valley and its eponymous lake. A final ascent takes us to a very picturesque pass beneath the Valnira peak. We go down to the Arp refuge and meet with our vehicle. A one-hour transfer takes us to Champ de Praz, where we spend the night at the Parc du Mont Avic hotel.

Elevation gain: 2,657 feet - Elevation drop: 2,657 feet - Distance : 7 miles

Mount Barbeston

Today's hike circles around Mont Avic Park. As we leave the hamlet, the trail starts climbing and enters the forest, while our presence is nicely welcomed by a delightful pine scent ! Once we've hiked passed the hamlet of Arp, the trail continues onto a shoulder, getting progressively narrow until it forms an easy ridge all the way to the summit of Mount Barbeston (8,143ft). The view rewards our efforts magnificently ! The descent leads to the "English alpine pastures", and then to the hamlet of La Veula, where we spend another night at our hotel.

Elevation gain: 4,134 feet - Elevation drop: 4,134 feet - Distance : 8 miles

Day 3

Barbustel refuge

With our rucksacks packed for 2 days, we leave the hotel and head out towards the Pessy pine forest, until we reach the creek, that springs out of the lake de Leser. The landscape becomes more alpine and we can soon see Barbustel hut (7,218ft), nestled between mountain lakes and surrounded by glacier-eroded labs, commonly called whales backs ! After we've dropped our packs off at the hut, we can hike a little more above the hut or go for a dip in the lake to enjoy this beautiful alpine environment. We spend the night at the hut. No access to our luggage.

Day 4

Médzove peak

After a rewarding sleep at the hut, we chose to leave early so to enjoy a long day around mountain lakes. The terrain gets rockier as we approach the summit of Medzove peak (9,334ft), the highest point of our day. Mount Ivorta (9,620ft) is not far ... We enjoy a wonderful view over the remote and preserved Clavalité valley. Then we start our descent and hike under Mont Avic, following the old minors trail until the valley bottom. A 1h30 ride with our minivan takes us to the village of La Salle in Val d'Aosta. We spend the night at the hotel.

Elevation gain: 2,674 feet - Elevation drop: 5,069 feet - Distance : 8 miles

We transfer to San Carlo mountain pass (6,463ft). We hike through the beautiful larch pine forest and easily reach Col de La Croix. A few minutes later we reach the old military barracks on the ridge leading to the summit of Tête de la Croix. From this strategic military lookout point, the view over the sunny sides of the Mont-Blanc range is magic ! We can also see Col du Petit St Bernard, a historical passageway between the Italian Aosta valley and the Savoyan region of Tarentaise. On the way back we will enjoy a nice foot dip in the superb Arpy Lake. It takes only 10 min to transfer to the village of La Thuile, where we stay for the night.
